TUITION FEES INCLUDE:

Career Development (CD) program: The program has full-time staff dedicated to assisting students to become workplace ready. They assess the suitability and skill sets of each student and match them to particular positions and employers, in order to fulfill program requirements. Students are obliged to apply for and take one of these recommended positions anywhere in Australia or abroad. Students must also meet selection criteria and pass a job interview.

The Career Development team maintains links with hotels, resorts, events and tourism employers in Australia and abroad as well as the alumni network.

The six-month periods of industry practicum with employers are paid at industry rates. Students working in Australia can expect to earn between AU$10,000 to $14,000 on average per placement; with a budgeting strategy, savings can be offset against fees.

The CD program includes an industry guest lecturer program which brings HR and other senior industry managers to the campus to talk to students and recruit graduates. Students are prepared for their industry practicum with resume writing, interview techniques and guidance on grooming and presentation as well as critical thinking about personal growth, strategic career planning and an awareness of ethics and values in the workplace.

The Career Development team also assists and advises when it comes to identifying the first job opportunity on graduation. In the final year students can apply for the Graduate Privileged Partners program, a competitive and selective program connecting the highest achieving final year students with a select group of Industry Partners.

Teaching facilities: The School's lecture theatres are fully equipped with all modern facilities. There are also seminar and tutorial rooms, fully equipped commercial kitchens and training food and beverage areas.

Students have 24/7 intranet access to the campus bulletin board, lecture notes and resources, timetables, policies and procedures and academic databases.

IT Services: Wireless networking is available for students to use their laptops. Students can either bring their own laptops or have the option of taking up the School's laptop package (see policy below).

Students will be provided with a School email upon arrival and have 24/7 email and internet access including printing facilities. Internet use is for academic purposes only: project research, library database access etc. Terminal servers allow connections off-campus anywhere in the world to Office, internet, basic applications, network shares, printers, intranet and webmail.

The School's computer laboratory is used for training in all academic-related and hotel and events software and provides 24/7 access to academic databases.

Library: The professionally staffed Library provides access to over 10,000 monographs and audiovisual items, specialising in the areas of tourism, hospitality, business and management. In addition, students have access to over 8000 journals, both hardcopy and online.

The Library currently subscribes to the following databases: Business Source Premier, Emerald, Decipher Tourism Data, Encyclopedia Britannica and World Data Analyst which can all be accessed 24/7 from any school networked computer. There is also a selection of recreational books and DVDs for students to borrow.

There is a limited document delivery service between the AIHS campus and BMIHMS campus libraries which will allow the email delivery of journal articles or book extracts, within copyright restrictions. A cross-campus library intranet houses a virtual closed reserve collection of articles in high demand and which are not available on the databases.

Additional services include library classes for Years 1 and 2, and database training sessions (group or individual). Proofreading services are available to students at AIHS/BMIHMS at an additional cost.

BMIHMS campus is the World Tourism Organisation's Asia-Pacific Depository Library and collects all hardcopy WTO materials. The Great, Grand and the Famous hotel resource collection which includes rare books, memorabilia, posters, ephemera and DVDs is available to all students.

Counselling: Students of the School have access to full academic, pastoral and other support. Private and confidential counselling on academic, career and personal matters is available through a professional counselling service by appointment.

Orientation program: An Orientation program is designed for all new students in the week prior to the academic term. The Orientation program assists students in adapting to Australian tertiary teaching methods and to the campus environment and allows them time to settle in and meet their teachers and each other.
